So how good are you at solving mysteries?

Are we travelling north or south on this trip? I'll give you a hint on this one—it's south (** could be/maybe) even though our pickups are heading north. Oh bother, let's just say west!

So there is a broad amount of ocean where we will make our first stop for morning tea. Then our coach will meander up hill, down hill, around a bend or two and then we will end up at the wang, dang, bang of a place for our lunch. You'll have time to enjoy your lunch, wander around this heritage listed place and even have time to grab a quick bargain or two and help the local economy.

Another short hop, skip and drive and to our final stop of the day where we will be taken on little guided tour of this venue and enjoy tasting some of their produce for afternoon tea. A lot of you may have already been here in the past. Then it's just a nice afternoon drive back around to our pick up points. So much mystery but so much fun trying to work it all out.
